'JAP' FORCES EVACUATE GUADALCANAL; ENEMY RESISTANCE ON EMBATTLED ISLE CEASES; STATEMENT MADE BY SEC'Y KNOX

States Recent Japanese Sea Force Movements In South Pacific Might Possibly Have Been to Cover Withdrawal of Nipponese Troops—Full Confirmation Lacking

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.—Japanese forces are evacuating Guadalcanal and enemy resistance on that embattled isle has ceased, Secretary of the Navy Knox disclosed today.

Thus, almost six months to the day that hard-fighting United States Marines landed on that tropical island to seize and hold the important Henderson Airfield, the American forces emerge victorious—and another step is taken on the road to Tokyo.

The Marines landed on Guadalcanal early last August. Army forces relieved them in January.

The admission by Knox was a dramatic climax to the American land offensive which began late in December and culminated with the encirclement recently of Cape Esperance on the northwest tip of the island. It was the second major land defeat for Nippon's forces, following closely the victory on New Guinea by troops under the command of General Douglas MacArthur.

Knox made his statement after reading a Berlin dispatch quoting Tokyo sources which stated that the Japanese forces on Guadalcanal and at Buna in New Guinea "had been transferred" to other bases.

Knox said, however, that full confirmation of this latest Jap move still was lacking and said that small groups of enemy forces still may be holding out on the long-embattled island.

The Secretary stated that recent Japanese sea force movements in the South Pacific could possibly have been made to cover withdrawal of the Nipponese troops from Guadalcanal.

Soviet forces crashing southward from the Donetz Basin threatened today to outflank Nazi armies reported fleeing from Rostov along the shore of the Sea of Azov as points on the Axis western front quaked in fear of continued Allied air raids.

The great Deutschlandsender station and the station at Toulouse, France, went off the air at 10:30 p. m. This is usually an indication that RAF bombers are over the area. But up to an early hour today the British Air Ministry had given no sign that RAF bombers were active.

Confer 1st, 2nd Degrees On Candidates at Grange

PLUMSTEADVILLE, Feb. 9.—When Plumsteadville Grange held a meeting last week, first and second degrees were conferred upon a class of nine candidates. Third and fourth degrees are to be conferred at the February 19th session.

During the business session the Grange decided to make a donation of $5 to the Bucks County Tuberculosis Society.

Highlights of sessions of the National Grange were given by the officers during the literary program.

Other numbers on the program were as follows: Prayer for men in the service, Horace L. Bishop; duet, "Wait for the Wagon," Gladys and Marie Bishop; tableau, "The Star Spangled Banner," Wayne Friling; reading, "Just Keep On," Emmalena Feiler; piano solo, Doris Myers, and singing, "Father Lead Me."

Instead of presenting a program at their meeting, the members of the juvenile Grange enjoyed a number of games.

Delays in Mail To The Armed Forces Explained

The post office department, replying to complaints as to delay in delivery of mail to and from men in the armed forces, announces that such delays are caused by various factors.

The department points out, however, that complaints, incidentally, are far fewer than the number received during World War I, although volume of mail is much larger.

It is announced by the department that mail for members of the armed forces is delivered by the post service to army and navy authorities at post offices convenient to camps or stations in this country, or to ports of embarkation when addressed to persons overseas, the post service then having no further jurisdiction over the mail, and responsibility for its delivery from that point on lies entirely with the army and navy. The same is true with mail from the army and navy men coming into this country, the two branches being responsible until mail is delivered to civilian post offices in this country.

Transportation of mail, it is pointed out, may be postponed sometimes so that more urgent needs for arms, food or more military and navy personnel may be filled first. Although mails are dispatched at every opportunity, at times the overburdened facilities cannot accommodate all the mail and it must be held until shipping space is available. Ship sinkings by enemy account for much of the lost mail, it is stated. More rapid transportation of mail from armed forces overseas to folks at home is due to the fact that less mail comes from overseas than goes to the armed forces overseas, and ships and planes on return trips have more space available; also addresses in this country are more stable than that of overseas personnel. V-mail is given priority in transportation by the army and navy over ordinary mail, and when possible, these are sent by airplane.

66 SELECTEES LEAVE FROM DOYLESTOWN AREA

42 Accepted for Army and Remainder are Assigned to Navy Training

NAMES MADE PUBLIC

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 9.—All but 14 of the 66 selectees passed their physical examinations at the Allentown induction center, representing another group from the district covered by Bucks County Local Draft Board No. 3, with headquarters in the Bucks County Court House.

With one exception all of the 52 selectees accepted were in the 18-19-year-old class. The group leader was Robert Brown, of Doylestown, an advertising executive with a well-known Philadelphia concern.

Forty-two of those were accepted for the Army and the other ten for the Navy. Selectees, when lined up at the Continued On Page Three

Advanced First Aid To Be Presented Locally

A class in advanced first aid will be opened tomorrow evening. The instruction will be given by Horace Walker at Red Cross headquarters, 120 Mill street, from 7.30 to 9.30 p. m.

Anyone who has taken the standard course of first aid will be eligible for this class.

AMERICAN RED CROSS IS TO PROVIDE PACKAGES OF FOOD FOR THE ALLIED PRISONERS OF WAR IN NUMEROUS CAMPS

By Mrs. E. Paul Patton
"Food for Our Boys"

American Red Cross is opening this month a new service to our armed forces, "the allied prisoners of war food packages." Under instruction from the government it is to be distributed through International Red Cross in Geneva.

This work has been magnificently carried on from Toronto, Canada, for two years. In the future Canadian Red Cross will only supply packages for the British empire. Our Red Cross will take over food packages for all allied prisoners of war and concentration camps in which our Allies are held, using Government lists. The southeastern chapter of Pennsylvania has been chosen by the government as logical location to begin operations on this work, since our chapter has the largest territory of any. Naturally great care must be made in selecting volunteers for this program since it could be easy access to sabotage. Those wishing to help must submit to rigid examination by Mrs. Stacy Lloyd at headquarters, and if accepted be photographed and numbered. The individual is assigned a certain day for duty, and if unable to report for duty must let headquarters know a certain period in advance, for each person has a definite job to do, and in case of absence the spot must be filled.

The work entails filling thousands of boxes weekly. It is to be accomplished on mass production lines. A well lighted, well ventilated factory at 30th and Allegheny avenues, Philadelphia, has been selected as the place for production, easily reached by Broad street subway to two-way surface cars on Allegheny avenue, directly to the door. The hours of work are from 10 a. m. to 12.30 with recess at 11 for 15 minutes. Volunteers supply their own lunch and making of beverage. Red Cross canteen is on duty to provide hot water and crockery and prepare and clear tables for the workers.

Roy Bradley, 46, Philadelphia, Sentenced to 9 Months to 3 Years in Jail

JEWELRY IS RECOVERED

Money Taken Has Also Been Returned, Court Is Informed

DOYLESTOWN, Feb. 9.—Roy Bradley, 46, of Philadelphia, pleaded guilty before Judge Calvin S. Boyer yesterday to a charge of the theft of $11 in cash and two diamond rings belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Faust, of Bellevue avenue, Langhorne, on November 28th.

Bradley, divorced from his wife, is a tile-setter. He was represented in court by Arthur M. Eastburn.

Pvt. Michael Boiwka, of the South Langhorne Motor Police sub-station, read a signed statement of confession made by the defendant, Bradley, after his arrest.

Bradley committed the thefts at Mrs. Sallie Faust's house, it is alleged, Bradley admitted stealing the woman's rings and the cash.

Private Boiwka reported that Bradley had been arrested six times as a Continued On Page Two

SENIORS LEAVE FOR A JOURNEY TO NEW YORK

Entrain this Morning for Three Days of Sight-Seeing in Metropolis

INTERESTING ITINERARY

Eighty-one seniors of Bristol high school, accompanied by four members of the faculty, left Bristol this morning for a three days sight-seeing trip in New York City.

The New York trip replaces the journey to Washington, D. C., usually made by Bristol seniors, the change being necessitated due to the war effort and crowded conditions in the capital city.

Arriving in New York by train at 8:47 this morning the group was assigned to the Park Central Hotel. They left at 9.30 for a tour of Upper Manhattan, visits to the Little Church Around the Corner, Grant's Tomb, Columbia University and other points. After room assignments and luncheon the group will go to the Hayden Planetarium to see the "Drama of the Stars"; then visit the Museum of Natural History. Dinner will be partaken of at the Coconut Grove, with a floor show and dancing being enjoyed.

Tomorrow's itinerary includes: Tour of NBC studios, visit to observation roof of RCA building 80 stories above the street; shopping during the afternoon, swimming party; then in the evening stage and screen show at Radio City Music Hall. A walk around Times Square will conclude the evening.

LATEST NEWS BULLETINS

Hundreds of Inmates Terrorized as Hospital Burns

Evansville, Ind.—Hundreds of inmates were terrorized early today when fire razed the 55-year-old Evansville State Hospital for the Insane.

Doctors who battled many of the 1,186 patients in the blazing, smoke-filled wards expressed the hope they had brought all their charges to safety, but admitted it was only a hope.

Some of the patients, they said, dove under beds in their terror and confusion and others, violently insane, fought against rescue when they were roused from their sleep by the alarm of fire.

Greatest difficulty was encountered in saving the lives of some 200 violent patients, many of whom were strapped to their beds when the fire broke out.

7 Army Fliers Killed; 3 Hurt
Sioux City, Ia.—Seven Army fliers were killed and three injured, officials of the Sioux City air base disclosed today, in the crash of a large bomber three miles southeast of the base last night.

Two of the survivors are in serious condition. Names of the fliers killed and injured were not available.

Outer London Districts Bombed

London—Nazi raiding planes today carried out scattered attacks in the outer London residential district, in the home counties and along the south coast of England.

Forays by the German aircraft caused a daylight alert to be sounded in London.

Two empty rural schools were hit by German planes which made deliberate runs over them. The attackers were obviously attempting to emulate the example of Nazi fliers who a few weeks ago bombed a school in a London suburb, killing 47 children and injuring many others.

Unveil Service Plaque In Morrisville Borough

MORRISVILLE, Feb. 9.—Ceremonies held at Manor Park School on Sunday marked the dedication of a plaque erected a few days previously by fourth ward residents. The plaque honors men from the area in the service of their country.

Mrs. George Sanford led in the prayer, and she was followed by Mrs. Harold Boodley, who gave the word of greeting. Monah R. Reiter, supervising principal of the Morrisville schools, congratulated those responsible for the fine work done in the preparation of the honor roll, and stressed the importance of those on the home front doing everything possible to help the boys now away by doing defense work, or taking up some form of civilian defense activity.

At the conclusion of Mr. Reiter's talk, the Morrisville high school band played the national anthem while the plaque was unveiled by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Seltzer. The Seltzers are parents of four sons now in the service.

ARCHER PROPERTY IS SOLD TO JOS. DIAMANTI

New Owner Plans Renovations; Conducts Sporting Goods Store

AT MILL AND CEDAR STS.

Record is made in the office of the registrar at Doylestown of transfer of the Archer property, located at Mill and Cedar streets, from Mrs. May B. Archer to Joseph Diamanti, of Andalusia and Bristol.

The property, three stories of frame construction, consists of approximately a dozen rooms, with large room which for many years was used as a bar when a hotel was operated at the site.

Mr. Diamanti states that he has no definite plans for renovations at present, but plans in the future to use at least part of the building for his sporting goods business. He conducts the Diamond Sporting Goods Store in the property adjoining, 134 Mill street, which property he also owns. At Andalusia is located his warehouse.

Just how soon the expansion will take place Mr. Diamanti has not as yet decided.

Submarine Wahoo Is Back With Great Record

By Richard Haller
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

ABOARD THE U. S. SUBMARINE WAHOO AT A PACIFIC BASE, Feb. 9.—(INS)—After navigating with the aid of a 25-cent map of the New Guinea area of the Southwest Pacific, the American submarine Wahoo was back in port today from a patrol mission that netted a Japanese destroyer, two freighters, a transport loaded with several thousand troops, and an oil tanker.

The Wahoo now has bagged a total of eight enemy ships. Members of the crew were busy today adding five more rising sun flags to the three that already adorn its hull.

After sinking the enemy destroyer in Wekew Harbor, on the north shore of New Guinea, the Wahoo sped northward, where it sighted its next victims. In the following 14 hours the American submarine sent four enemy vessels, aggregating 30,000 tons, to the bottom of the Pacific.

On this record-breaking patrol the Wahoo was under command of Lieut. Com. Dudley W. Morton, of Miami, Fla. His executive officer is Lieut. Richard S. O'Kane, of San Rafael, Calif.

Lieut. Com. Morton's wife, a three-year-old son, Douglas, and his one-year-old daughter Edwina are now living in Los Angeles.

COUNCIL SETS TAX RATE SAME AS IT WAS LAST YEAR

Water Mains To Be Extended To Defense Houses Along Green Lane

POLICE MAKE REPORT

Water From Wells Not To Be Supplied Before April 1st

Borough Council last night fixed the tax rate at 11 mills, the same as it was in 1942. Council also approved an agreement by which the borough water distribution system will be extended to a new housing development along Green Lane.

The meeting of Council was a short one, with just a quorum being present. The session was called to order by William J. Lefferts, secretary, who informed Council that Dr. J. Fred Wagner, president, would not be able to attend the meeting. Mr. Lefferts asked that a chairman be selected. William W. Warner was named to preside.

The monthly report of the Police Committee showed that the officers made 17 arrests during the month. Five were fined, one discharged, seven held for court, two committed to jail, one turned over to the U. S. Army, and one turned over to a state hospital.

Fifty-six lodgers were sheltered during the month, eight incandescent street lights were reported out and three are lights. Four doors were found unlocked after midnight. Twenty-three motorists were fined for "all-night" parking and six were discharged.

Clifford Hagerman, chief, Bristol Consolidated Fire Department, submitted his annual report, which was approved, ordered filed and made a part of the borough year book.

Councilman Louis C. Spring, chairman of the Water Committee, informed council that due to the inability of the pump manufacturers to deliver pumps for the new water project before the middle of March, well water would not be available before April 1st.

The budget resolution read for the first time at the January meeting, was read again and adopted, as was also the ordinance fixing the tax rate for 1943.

On motion of Councilman Richard T. Myers, chairman of health and sanitation committee, Dr. H. Doyle Webb was re-named to the Board of Health Continued On Page Two

Father and Son Win Nine Poultry Prizes

Harry Sterling, of Morrisville, and his son, Harry, Jr., pooled their knowledge and skill in poultry raising to win nine prizes between them at the Boston Poultry Show, oldest event of its kind in the world. Sterling, Sr., took five firsts on an entry of R. C. Rhode Island Reds, while the son won three first and one fourth place awards on his Rouen ducks.

A total of $8,500 in war stamp premiums instead of the usual cash went to competing exhibitors representing 21 states, Paul Ives, show chairman, announced today.

High spot of the show was a war bond auction at a special booth provided by the A & P Tea Company at which Governor Leverett Saltonstall, of Massachusetts, and Mayor Maurice Tobin, of Boston, swung the auction hammer and Governors Robert Hood, of New Hampshire, Sumner Sewall, of Maine, William Wills, of Vermont, and Raymond Baldwin, of Connecticut, spoke briefly. A total of $19,500 in war bonds and stamps was sold, with breeders and fanciers contributing fowl and pigeons worth more than a thousand dollars as prizes to buyers of war bonds at auction. According to the president of the show, Thomas Leavitt, Assinippi, Mass., the meeting was one of the most successful in its history.

Super-champion, or best-in-show, was a White Wyandotte cock owned by J. W. Andrews, Dighton, Mass. Other champions were turkeys—White Holland hen, owned by the Green Mountain Turkey Farm, Bellows Falls, Vt.; waterfowl—Rouen duck, owned by Dr. Joel P. Bradford, Acushnet, Mass.; bantams—Black Rose Comb cockerel, owned by Rep. Harold Tompkins, Concord, Mass.; and large fowl—the White Wyandotte which also won best-in-show. The "most beautiful bird" award went to a Dark Brahma cock owned by H. Preston Merchant, Oswego, N. Y.

THAT NO SLICE CRISIS

A new and shadowy character stalks the land. He's the bread bootlegger—the sliced bread bootlegger. It's no joke, especially to consumers who prefer their bread sliced.

It's no joke, either, to those bakers who try to live up to their claims in government regulations. Press dispatches tell the story. New York bakers charge before the complaint bureau of the Department of Agriculture that some of their sharp brothers have been cutting corners or, more appropriately, bread.

Here's a dangerous business. Will slot-in-the-door delicatessens be established next? What will Secretary Wickard and his enforcement agents do? Are purveyors of cut bread to be placed in the same category as the boys who used to sell Scotch? These are questions of grave import to the whole wheat and rye trade. They go to the heart of the no-slice question, a question which threatens to become a crisis and divide the country as no loaf is now divided.

Mr. Wickard's edict is not without supporters, weighty supporters as it were. Do not look for them among the sweet girl graduates or the October brides—yet. They are to be found among mamas and aunts to whom a thick slice or a thin slice represents a difference reflected more on the bathroom scale than in the kitchen. To the stylish stout and two-way stretch school of thought Mr. Wickard has done just dandy. He has made it possible to get slender slices that mean so much to the girls, especially the girls who are equipped with an embonpoint and a sharp knife.

But Mr. Wickard ought to be advised that he has lost the midnight ice box vote irrevocably. Here extra thickness is of no moment except it be in the sandwich bread. Here the no-slice ban cuts deepest. Nothing means so many midnight snacks, dispositions and digestions as the combination of a dull knife and an inept hand.

So the controversy will wane until the war or the ban ends, and until the last loaf and the last thumb have been sliced.

STABILIZATION

A crucial point has been reached in the struggle to keep wages and prices from getting out of hand. The administration is hard pressed to stem the tide, as its control dykes are subjected to increasing pressures from the labor and farm groups.

Organized labor maintains that, due largely to the rise in farm prices, living costs have continued to advance since last spring and, therefore, the limit placed on wage increases by the "Little Steel" formula should be liberalized.

The farm group says farm prices were originally frozen on the level of the 1910 living standard, while wages were frozen on a 1941 living standard level, and it cites in addition the large number of farm hands enticed from the farm by war industry's high wages. To hold the help remaining, the farmers say they must pay more.

Accordingly, farmers are demanding more insistently than ever that in order to increase their return the parity price formula be changed to take in farm labor costs, including the work of themselves and their families. The farmers claim that their profits, at even the present high levels of farm prices, are less than wages paid by industry.

Life A Bit Tough En Route To Africa With Troops

command put him under wraps immediately after he had staggered into their headquarters with a bedroll effectively unhooking his right arm; a barrack bag crammed to overflowing and a portable typewriter performing similar functions to his left arm; his back half broken with a heavy soldier's pack and the breath being slowly strangled from him with a gas respirator and haversack.

"Where we going?"

"How long?"

The negatives were snapped back by a West Point major with a mouth like a rat trap.

"Well, I'll just dump my gear here and nip over to the club for a final snort and I'll be all set."

"You'll nip nowhere but stay right here."

A trembling hand reached for the telephone with a "just wanna let the little woman know I won't be back for some time" but nothing doing.

"No telephoning either!"

Thus the writer became "No. 5" in a unit of five—two radio reporters, one radio maintenance engineer, one reporter and one conducting officer shortly to be whisked away into the unknown, via London's dreariest black-out and little used suburban railroad station, packed sardine-like with troops, silent, shrouded, mournful.

Train after train moved silently out. No hand played, no sweethearts or wives with tearful farewells; no hysterical cheering; no waving beer bottles, just a silent, efficient troop entrapment—all so very different, all so very strange, yet all so understanding.

Soon "Unit X" was huddled up in a tiny cushioned compartment and the train rum-ti-ti-tumped northward with the conducting officer, Capt. Tony Leveiro, former New York newspaperman, blinking owlishly, uncommunicatively, at the barrage of questions that was fired at him.

"Now tell us where we are going?"

His answer was a conjuror-like production of a package of Graham crackers, which assuaged the hunger but left the curiosity unsatisfied. So throughout the long night Unit X slumbered fitfully and even when the train pulled up eventually alongside a busy quay the operation was still a secret.

Cunningly distributed over the bay was every conceivable kind of ship, from the mighty battle cruiser, to the destroyer, corvette, humble tanker, freighter and mighty floating palaces of luxury liners.

With deep gratitude within their hearts Unit X with a packed tender heaved to under the lee of a gigantic liner and that was their home for the next 11 days—and a very pleasant home-from-home it was at that.

Five thousand odd troops were enveloped in the liner's vast bosom. Other liners were rapidly assimilating similar loads, all quickly and efficiently. Overhead Spitfires and Hurricanes zoomed around and little destroyers and tugs fussed and thrashed about the calm waters.

But all was according to schedule; the Luftwaffe had "deemed it prudent to be elsewhere." Had that protecting air screen been less invulnerable, terrific slaughter would have resulted from the torpedoes of any marauding aircraft.

But none came to the heartfelt relief of the warriors clustered in that inland sea.

If The Shoe Pinches, Keep It On, Is The Cry

By Walter Kiernan

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—(INS)—"If the shoe pinches . . . keep it on!" is the new battle-cry of the nation, and a good thing too.

If all the shoes that were left in theatres, street cars, cabs and trash baskets last year throughout the nation were laid end to end they would still be too tight.

What other reason prompts a woman to walk out of a theatre minus one shoe? Or do they carry spares in their bags?

Radio City Music Hall has in its files, the case of the man who hopped into Sixth Avenue on one leg, hopped into a cab and was driven away. He was a two-legged man but he wore only one shoe. The other shoe was found in the theatre.

The city subways report similar little mysteries. About six pairs of shoes, boxed or wrapped, turn up in the Independent Division every week. That's just plain forgetfulness but, in addition, three or four single shoes turn up. How do you figure that?

The way the lost and found department figures is that these women get tight shoes, see, and they ease their feet out of the tightest one, see, and they're standing there swaying on the strap and they come to their station and they scream out of the train and just as the doors close they find they've only got one shoe on but then it's too late.

The Interboro Division picks up 15 to 20 pairs of shoes a month, mostly old shoes. The lost and found department can't figure out whether people walk out of them or use the subway as a depository—like a slot for old razor blades.

The Interboro also gets a couple of new pair a month—they're always called for—and a few singles. The Interboro collection runs mostly to men's shoes and there may be some hidden point here which you are at liberty to develop in your spare time. Why should women leave their shoes in one subway and men in another? Do not send self-addressed post card for answer which we do not have.

So anyway this shoe rationing probably will end this for no woman who is allowed only three pairs of shoes a year is going to go around shedding rights or lefts in movie theatres.

Not unless she can talk the old man into giving her his ration coupon and buying non-rationed ballet slippers for herself.

A postscript to this story is the sad case of Paul Jones, a Paramount director whose hobby is shoes. He never has less than 25 pairs on hand . . . or on foot. What's he going to do now? Huh?

Pleads Guilty To Theft of 2 Rings and Sum of Money

suspicious character, and discharged each time and on another occasion he was acquitted of attempted robbery.

Mrs. Sallie Faust testified that she lives in the same house with her divorced husband, at Langhorne, and that the defendant, Bradley, was a good friend of hers.

Mrs. Faust testified that she has her rings, that they were lifted from the pawnshop for $92, and that Bradley has also repaid her $11, the amount stolen.

Mrs. Faust informed the Court that Bradley's actions took place after they had an argument about seeing each other. She stated that she suspected Bradley had stolen the rings, picture and money.

"I don't feel that Bradley had intended to steal the rings and I feel that he would have returned the rings," Mrs. Faust testified.

Mrs. Faust admitted that she had given Bradley $92 to redeem the rings, and that he spent the money, necessitating her producing $92 more to lift the rings.

Bradley testified that he has known Mrs. Faust for several months and has been keeping company with her.

"I took the rings and money because I had a fit of temper," Bradley testified.

Pvt. Botwka is the prosecutor in the case—not Mrs. Faust.

The defendant informed the Court that he has been "hanging around the docks in Philadelphia," unloading trucks for drivers.

"I pawned the rings because I was afraid the police might find them on me," Bradley testified. "Mrs. Faust had told me the police were watching my home because Mr. Faust had reported the ring and money thefts."

Bradley has been in jail since last December.

In pronouncing sentence, Judge Boyer remarked that the case is "a most unusual one."

"We will consider only the public here in pronouncing sentence," Judge Boyer commented. "Had Mrs. Faust been a stranger to you, the Court would have imposed the maximum sentence in your case. You took the articles under circumstances that ordinarily would have been burglary. Your reputation is very bad in some respects."

Judge Boyer sentenced Bradley to serve 9 months to 3 years in the Bucks County Prison from the date of commitment.

Carlen G. Kooker, New Hope merchant, was appointed foreman of the grand jury for the February sessions of Bucks county criminal court by President Judge Hiram H. Keller.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By the Rev. James R. Galley)

Pastor, Bristol Presbyterian Church

O Lord, our God, Who art all things to all men, satisfy the needs of our hearts and souls as we live in the midst of a world of strife. The burdens of the day weigh upon us with a weight which we sometimes feel to be beyond our ability. The trial of separation from our loved ones oftentimes makes us heavy with anxiety. Grant unto us the presence of the Spirit of God, Who might strengthen us, and enable us to meet the tasks of the day. May we live in Thy strength and walk in Thy way. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Mrs. Emma Sickles, Trenton, N. J., was the guest of her sister, Mrs. William Duhamel, Radcliffe street, several days last week.

DI ANGELO'S EXTRA-PERIOD GOAL GIVES THE FARRUGGIO FIVE A WELL EARNED VICTORY; SCORE, 29 TO 27

"Chick" DiAngelo's extra period goal gave the Farruggio team a well-earned victory over the Rohm and Haas team last night on the Mutual Aid floor in the season's most thrilling contest. Final score was 29-27 and the triumph enabled the Farruggio team to tie the Diamond aggregation for first place in the Bristol Basketball League.

The score at the end of the regulation game was 27-27 made thus when Boscel Rice dropped in one of a pair of foul attempts to even up the count with less than 30 seconds remaining to be played. Had Rice sunk in both tries, Rohm and Haas would have won in regulation time.

Both teams played cautious ball at the beginning of the extra period and refused to take any unnecessary chances retaining possession of the ball as much as possible. Few shots were taken in the first three minutes but then the teams loosened up. Rice attempted a field goal for the chemical workers and was fouled. He missed both tries.

The timekeeper's watch had just moved to the four minute mark when Napoli tried a side court shot. The ball hit the basket and bounced back into the playing court. DiAngelo was standing nearby, so he picked up the spear and dropped it clean through the nets for what proved to be the winning field goal as no score was made the remainder of the game.

DIAMOND TEAM DEFEATED BY HUNTER

The Diamond team lost its hold on first place in the Bristol Basketball League last night when it was beaten by the Hunter team. It marked the third straight loss for the Mill street aggregation and deadlocked them for the lead with the Farruggio team. Final tabulations of the game were: Hunter's, 33; Diamond, 32.

In scoring his upset victory, Manager Ray Pico used but six players as yesterday three of his men entered the armed forces. Most of the game, he was forced to use his starting five as Sharp had three personals called on him the first half.

Swedish residents heard a series of explosions from the direction of Copenhagen, Danish capital, and said it appeared likely that the port had been bombed at least three times during the night. There was no Allied confirmation.

The German defense line from Orel through Kursk, Belgorod, Kharkov and Voroshilovgrad to Rostov—a front of 500 miles, was threatened with collapse as Red army columns fought their way into Kursk, and then cleared the city of Axis troops in fierce hand-to-hand fighting.

Kursk, a strongly fortified German base and anchor point in the Axis defense line, had been in enemy hands fifteen months, and its failure to halt the Russian advance gave rise to hopes that Kharkov, Rostov, and other key-points would fare no better in the smashing Soviet offensives.

A German flight from Rostov was reported in dispatches from Ankara and Stockholm as Russian artillery pounded the town. The Germans were said to be headed for Mariupol, 100 miles west on the north shore of the Sea of Azov.

But Russian advances north of Mariupol already have carried west of the port, and Russian columns swinging southward threatened to outflank the retreating Axis armies. Russian units in the Kramatorsk area were only 110 miles away. The mid-day Soviet communiqué reported capture of several towns in continued advances on this sector.

Another Russian spearhead driving on Belgorod, a bristling hedgehog position midway between Kursk and Kharkov, was only 25 miles east of the town.

In the western Caucasus Soviet armies narrowed the strip along the Black Sea coast, closing in on Krasnodar and the port of Novorossisk.

While the Air Ministry made no announcement of new raids on Germany or occupied Europe, London had its 611th alert of the war. Two enemy bombers broke through the city's outer defenses but were driven off. Small German formations were reported over the English south coast in weak raids which caused little damage.

British long range guns in the Dover area shelled Nazi positions on the French coast in a 30-minute bombardment and the enemy big guns replied in the brief cross-channel duel.

No activity was reported from the southern Solomons where a scattered but powerful Japanese task force was believed to be still maneuvering to draw U. S. warships out of positions. There was a possibility that the enemy was merely feinting in the Solomons to cover intended assaults on Allied bases to the east in the Fiji Islands or New Hebrides.

Land based bombers under the command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur continued devastating assaults on Japanese bases in the northern Solomons and New Guinea areas.

The airbase at Buin in the northern Solomons was smashed in a prolonged night attack. Violent explosions rocked the island and the force was felt by an Allied bomber more than 9,000 feet in the air. Fires started were seen 90 miles away.

Grounded planes were believed to have been damaged or destroyed. A 2,000-ton Japanese supply ship was destroyed off Buin.

Other attacks were made on Dobo, in the Aroe Islands west of New Guinea, on Gasmata, on New Britain Island to the east, and on Finischhafen, on the shore of New Guinea.

WELL, MEBBE

CHICAGO—(INS)—Educators were cautioned recently against returning to an excessive concentration on the three R's merely because many men inducted into the armed services made low scores on screening tests. "Hasty interpretation of the results of various tests given to the armed forces, said Dr. Hilda Taba, assistant professor of education at the University of Chicago, "may result in danger to the curriculum and impaired efficiency in instruction if the three R's are too formally stressed in the schools."

A monkey-wrench in the machinery!

That's what even a "minor" failure of some equipment can become. Whatever delays or stops war production is a national calamity. The battleship, the gun or the plane that isn't on the spot when needed, may turn the tide of battle in favor of our enemies.

Electricity is the power behind our war production. It can serve only when the facilities through which it functions are fit for duty. Nowadays, when all electrical equipment is pulling peak loads, when it scarcely can be replaced, when its failure has such far-reaching consequences . . . is a good time for plant executives to give its maintenance serious consideration.

Meticulous and constant inspection may catch the causes of breakdowns in the bud. Careful operations, cleaning, oiling, adjusting are obviously necessary.

All this applies to the home and commercial establishments as well as to the war plant. The common-sense requirement as well as the patriotic duty of everyone is to see that electrical equipment is kept on the job.

A Unified Command For Your Home Front

Through the United War Chest, we who can't shoulder arms can help speed victory by doing three big jobs. First, we must support our community social, health, and youth agencies to protect the home front and win the battle of production. Second, we must preserve the morale of our fighting men, through the U.S.O., our many local war services, and by assuring them that the folks at home will be taken care of. Third, we must provide Greater Philadelphia's full share of relief to our fighting allies. To do these three big jobs, the United War Chest plans to raise $7,300,000 from January 24 to February 10. Please give!
